EDITOR WEST AND THE LIEUTENANT GOVERNORSHIP.

Editor D. T. West, in the Sunday News of August 7, makes some statements regarding the failure of Senator Pringle to receive the nomination for hentenant governor which are redicuously incorrect, yet, at the same time, are proper to notice. He follows up his statement that it is his purpose to show how Senator Pringle was defeated for the nomination as follows: "No intelligent, reputable or truthful republican who attended that convention.

r who was all conversant with current politics in the party, doubted seriously that Senator Pringle could secure the nomina-tion IF General Bushnell would get off the track and take no part in the contest. Gen-teral Bushnell knew, Senator Pringle knew, and the friends of both gentlemen knew that General Bushnell could have the nomi-nation by acciamation if he would accept. General Bushnell, declaring privately that for paramount business reasons, he could and would not accept the nomination, allowed himself to be elected a member of the Clark county delegation which was instructed for Pringle. But not until the very hour of the state convention, did the general publicly

There is a peculiarity about the phensants which probably does not apply to any to any other bird or animal on the globe; and this is the fact that no hunter was ever able, under any conceivable circumstances, to surprise one or get within gunshot of him without being observed. The writer has tried the experiment frequent-ly, but never succeeded. The only way to get near enough to a pheasant to shoot him is to make all the noise possible. In this way the bird can be approached as nearly as desired, but the moment the hunter stops the bird has flown with such rapidity that it seems to have been fired Indeed, instances are from a howitzer. frequent where they have flown with such velocity as to dash themselves to death trainst trees in their route. - Baltimore American.

No Microbes in Tobacco. There is one thing about tobacco that has always surprised microscopists, and which is highly favorable to that distinguished weed. It is the purest of all vegetable substances when placed under a microscope. There is an entire absence of micro-organisms of every description. While almost all else in nature, even some of the acids, are alive with animated substances-bacteria, animalculæ, microbes or fungi of some kind-tobacco is entirely free of everything of the kind. It presents nothing to the microscope but its fibers and texture—its organic structure. Nor does this condition appear to change. All through the different processes of its manufacture, after being removed from the stalk, it presents the same appearance The microbe appears to shun tobacco, probably because of its destructive qualities to the lower organisms. - Globe

Few Tall Men in English Militia. The militia does not show much better in regard to stature than in numbers man over six feet in height is quite a rara avis in the force, there being only 806 out of 114,489 who can boast that distinction. On the other hand, just one quarter of the total strength is represented as under five feet five inches and 20,000 odd between that and five feet six inches.

In former years, therefore, when higher standard was prescribed most of these men would have been rejected as undersized. These statistics certainly bear out the public belief, founded on the evidence of foresight, that the constitu tional force is not what it should be in the matter of physique.-London Court Jour
